Accounting and Information Systems is my major, but I am leaning more towards accounting. My dream job would be running a climbing gym(s). So having the database and technical knowledge provided from Information systems is still an important thing.

My background in tech is around some light coding due to wanting to be a game developer when I was younger. So, anything with the Unity game engine I know my way around. On the hardware side I have built 4 Pc's from scratch and stay up to date on hardware updates, So I am knowledgeable in that.

I originate from the land of Lincoln, California and live, eat, and Breathe rock climbing. Since first beginning my journey 3 yards ago on a whim I have been consistently climbing as much as I can. Outside of climbing though I love reading, watching movies, and playing video games.
